William H. McHugh, vice-president of the International Printing Pressmen's and Assistants' Union; Marsden G. Scott, president of the International Typographical Union, and James J. Freel, president of the International Stereotypers' and Electrotypers' Union.

It was based upon a resolution adopted Friday night by the Central Federated Union, which was interpreted by striking pressmen as being a declaration of sympathy with their cause. Ernest Behm, secretary of the C. F. U., since has denied that the body had any such intention and has declared the position of the Central Federated Union to be impartial.

to be impartial.

The presidents of the international unions who are fighting the New York strike declare nevertheless that the resolution was presented at the C. F. U. meeting by representatives of the outlawed striking unions for the purpose of giving comfort and moral support to their movement.

Moral Support Action Cited.

The letter containing the protest of three international presidents recites resolution adopted by the executive puncil of the American Federation of Labor last week condemning the strik-ing New York pressmen as secondonists, as well as the resolution of the Central Federated Union in which the latter deplored the refusal of the international organization to take back certain of the strike leaders and tendered its "sympathy and moral support in the fight of the Allied Printing Trades of Greater New York for better working conditions and a living wage."

and a living wage."

In reference to the latter resolution the international presidents wrote:

"The representatives of the undersigned printing trades unions regret the necessity which compels us to bring to your official attention a flagrant and deliberate defiance of the executive council of the American Federation of Labor by the Central Federated Union of New York city and vicinity through the adoption of resolutions by that body calculated to give moral support to the outlawed seceding local printing trades unions, which have openly defied the authority of the International Printing Pressuren's and Assistants' Union of North America.

"We urge that the officers of the American Federation of Labor take immediate steps to compel the Central Federated Union of New York city to recognize the authority of the executive countril.

"We further urge the executive council to demand the immediate and unqualified withdrawal by the Central Federated Union of the resolution adopted by its delegates on Friday morning and that its action in rescinding these resolutions be given publicity the usual charges." ough the usual charinels. e demand that the Central Feder-

"We further suggest that the latter or refusal of the Central Federated Union to immediately recognize the authority of the executive council of the American Federation of Labor in this controversy shall be followed by the revocation of the charter of the Central Federated Union of New York city."

The explanation given by officers of the Central Federated Union of the resolution which caused this protest is that it was not intended as a declaration in favor of any particular faction, but as an appeal for peace between the warring labor factions. At least, officers of the C. F. U. said such was their understanding of it at the time of its adoption.

AMUSEMENTS.

To the Public

No. 1

Amusement lovers will be interested in the announcement that a new institution dedicated to their enjoyment will be opened at Broadway and 51st Street, New York, in the near future.

This theatre will be known as the "Capitol" and will be unusual in many respects.

It will be the largest theatre in the world, so vast in expanse that nine ordinary first-class theatres could be contained within its walls.

It will comfortably seat 5300 people. The chairs are roomy and inviting. The aisles are wide. Everywhere one finds spacious promenades.

The management takes pleasure in having created so unusual an institution for the entertainment of the public, but recognizes the fact that something more is expected of it.

Other features of the policy will be outlined in this space from day to day.
